OCTOBER 2003

1930 West Virginia Census Index

From the Editor:

The staff of Archives and History, Division of Culture and History, is saddened by the passing of Dr. Otis Rice on September 22, 2003, so soon after his appointment by Governor Bob Wise as the first Historian Laureate of West Virginia on July 22 of this year. The words of the Governor's proclamation on that date are a fitting epitaph: "Be it hereby known that Dr. Otis K. Rice has been appointed Historian Laureate, for preserving, collecting and recounting the history of the great State of West Virginia. This appointment recognizes your outstanding work in the field of West Virginia history, and honors the dedication you have shown throughout your life and career as an historian, educator, researcher and writer. Your contributions to the understanding of the history, culture and people of this State will forever be a part of our proud intellectual legacy and social heritage."

1930 WEST VIRGINIA CENSUS
INDEX NOW AVAILABLE ON CD-ROM IN
ARCHIVES AND HISTORY LIBRARY

Ancestry.com 1930 U.S. Federal Census Index: West Virginia, published by MyFamily.com, Inc. on CD-Rom, is now available for use in the West Virginia Archives and History Library. To our knowledge, this is the first commercially available statewide index for the West Virginia 1930 Census in any format other than an on-line subscription service. Since the available Soundex for the West Virginia 1930 Census only covers seven of our fifty-five counties, finding families and individuals on the microfilmed census records has been time-consuming at best, and very difficult in many cases. We are grateful to have an index of any type that facilitates locating specific households in the 1930 census at no cost to our patrons. Approximately 800,000 records may be searched by name of any person (not just head of household), with or without Soundex definitions applied, and/or by county or a district within a county. You can make each search very specific by including full name, sex, age, etc., with exact spelling required, or very general by using a surname with Soundex spelling variations accepted. You can browse through a district or a county, household by household.

That said, we have found a number of setbacks in using this index. The state is divided over two discs, West Virginia Northeast and West Virginia Southeast, so a complete search of the state requires searching each disc separately. We suggest making a list of names so that you can check the list first against one disc, then the other, without forgetting any names. Switching discs frequently is not encouraged, is time-consuming and increases the risk of forgetting to search each name on both discs.

Much of the handwriting on the microfilmed records is ambiguous at best. If you know what the name is supposed to be, you may recognize the handwritten name easily, but for the transcriber the letters may have been difficult to decipher. We have found many, many incorrectly transcribed names, some of which form such nonsense syllables that we do not understand why the garbled name was accepted for entry on the CD. Others are the more standard misperception of r's with n's, a's with o's, etc. If you are unable to find any of the people in the households you are seeking, try taking a look at a few pages of the microfilm for the county you expected to find them in to see what the handwriting looks like. For example, by comparing an identifiable name such as "Charles" with another recognizable name such as "Johnny," you can compare the way the "r" and the "n" were composed and learn to differentiate the two. This is especially important if the first letter of the name has been changed, since the Soundex capability of the digitized record will not help you then. If the microfilmed handwriting has big, fat, squatty capital "P's," try looking for your missing "Potter" family as "Dotter."

Hopefully by examining the actual microfilmed pages you will get a better idea of how the name may have been misinterpreted by the original census taker, the copyist who wrote the census page that was microfilmed, and/or the data entry clerk who entered the name from the microfilm for digitization. As always, our Library staff will assist you as much as possible when you are having difficulty using any record.

GORDON RHEA TO DELIVER
 CIVIL WAR SCHOLARS LECTURE
 OCTOBER 21, 2003

The Civil War Scholars Lecture series is co-sponsored by the Kanawha Valley Civil War Roundtable and by the Archives and History section of the West Virginia Division of Culture and History. Next in the series, on October 21 in The Cultural Center, Gordon Rhea will present "Grant and Lee: The 1864 Virginia Campaign," providing an overview of the Virginia Overland Campaign which began in May 1864, as General Ulysses S. Grant began his dogged pursuit of General Robert E. Lee in Virginia. In the month that followed, Grant backed Lee into the gates of Richmond, permanently changing public perception about the "glory of war" as tragic photographs and news stories about the fighting spread both north and south. The lecture will touch on this legacy of the campaign.

Rhea, author of a critically acclaimed and award-winning series of four books on the subject, is considered the foremost historian of the 1864 Virginia Campaign. Published by Louisiana State University Press, the series consists of a book on each of the four primary segments of the campaign: The Battle of the Wilderness, May 5-7, 1864; The Battles for Spotsylvania Courthouse and the Road to Yellow Tavern, May 7-12, 1864; To the North Anna River: Grant and Lee, May 13-15, 1864; and Cold Harbor: Grant and Lee, May 26-June 3, 1864. He also has written extensively for both scholarly and popular historical publications, and has been featured in several history and Civil War programs for A&E, the History Channel and the Discovery Channel. Rhea received an M.A. in history from Harvard University, where he held a prestigious Woodrow Wilson fellowship, and is a graduate of the Stanford University School of Law. He is a former assistant United States Attorney, and is currently practicing law in Mount Pleasant, South Carolina. (Information courtesy of Beth White, Kanawha Valley Civil War Roundtable.)

NSDAR VOLUNTEERS OFFER
FREE LOOKUPS

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (NSDAR) has a Message Board on RootsWeb monitored by volunteers. To request a lookup in the NSDAR "Patriot Index," post a message including your Revolutionary War era ancestor's first and last names, spouse's name (if known), dates of birth and death, and state of residence. You do not have to be interested in joining NSDAR to request a lookup. If found, the information in the Patriot Index will be supplied via the Message Board. If desired, a copy of the application form for the NSDAR membership based on this patriot's descendants can be ordered for $10.00. The Message Board URL is: <http://boards.ancestry.com/mbexec?htx=board&=rw&p=topics.organizations.dar>.

SHARING FAMILY HISTORY
VIA THE INTERNET

RootsWeb Review: Missing Links, an Internet e-zine devoted to genealogical topics, has had an ongoing discussion regarding sharing of family history information. A sore point with many veteran genealogists is the "free-loaders" who want the fruits of others' research without offering any information in return, and who many times post that data on their own Websites without giving credit or thanks to the actual researchers. The following comment was offered in the Volume 6, No. 38, September 17, 2003, issue.

Piecing Genealogy Together*
By Diane Wolford, snowberi@aol.com

I still run into frustrated people when they want all their genealogy out on the Web instantly, going back to their immigrants or into the 1400s, if possible. I tell them that researching your family is like putting together a picture puzzle—and the pieces are just not on the table in front of you. One piece may be under the couch, another in the bottom drawer in a chest in the garage, the other in your neighbor's yard by the old oak tree. At some point, YOU have to hunt.

BIOGRAPHY OF PATRICK GASS NOW AVAILABLE IN THE ARCHIVES AND HISTORY LIBRARY

As mentioned in last month's Archives and History News, a biography of Patrick Gass, a member of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, written by J. G. Jacob, was published in Wellsburg, WV, in 1859. Few copies of the original edition or of the 2000 facsimile reprint by Lone Wolf Press are available in West Virginia Libraries. A copy of the facsimile edition is now in the West Virginia Archives and History Library collection. The book is titled: The Life and Times of Patrick Gass: Now sole survivor of the overland expedition to the Pacific, under Lewis and Clark, in 1804-5-6; also, a soldier in the war with Great Britain, from 1812 to 1815, and a participant in the battle of Lundy's Lane: Together with Gass' journal of the expedition condensed; and sketches of some events occurring during the last century in the upper Ohio country, biographies, reminiscences, etc.
